Ensure a Smooth Transition

The decision to acquire or merge with another firm is just the beginning of a long process of operational steps to make it happen. And chief among those steps is ensuring a smooth technology transition. Without a solid plan in place, your company is vulnerable to security risks, downtime and other technology issues that can negatively impact your firm's bottom line.

Sentigy's team has extensive experience providing the technology management needed to support mergers and acquisitions. Utilizing Sentigy PathwaysSM, our proprietary business alignment tool, we develop a plan that will enable you to make a smooth transition as your business changes. Included in that plan is a security assessment, to ensure that no "holes" are opened up during the merger process. The Sentigy team then uses an independent, vendor-neutral approach to assist you in implementation of the plan, from system integration to data consolidation. Finally, Sentigy assists in the documentation of processes, procedures and the technology merger plan.

Mergers and acquisitions don't have to disrupt your business. Ensure a smooth transition by calling Sentigy today.
